Little Rock, Oct. 3 (AP) — Beef and dairy cattle were put on exhibition by Arkansas top breeders at the state stock show yesterday. Ray A. Varnell of Green Mountain farm near Selway took the grand championship for short-horn with a seven and a half month-old bull.

Ray Peebles son of Smithville (Lawrence county) showed the grand champion shorthorn bull, a polled junior yearling.

John Oliver's yearling ranch of Harrison showed a grand champion bull and a senior yearling for the grand champion female.

O'Byrne's animals won six of the eight classes for bulls and five of the 10 classes for heifers.

In the Brahman show Southern Rice Farm, Inc., took top honors, winning the championships and reserve championships for both bulls and females.

In the polled herefords, R.A. Plaford & son of Pikesburg (Columbia county), showed the grand champion bull and Zack O. Jennings of Route 8, Little Rock, the grand champion female.

Two yearlings scored in the yearling contests. John W. Johnson of Scott (Polaski county) showed a two-year-old yearling bull to win a grand champion female. Danny Thomas of Sweet Home (Polaski county) showed

The guernsey grand champion bull was exhibited by Robert L. Dorch of Scott, and singley guernsey farm of Route 4, Little Rock, presented the grand champion guernsey female.

Porchela farm of Polaski county showed the grand champion yearling female.

In the milking shorthorns, Gay Greenfield of Fort Smith, led the top bull and female.

In the open swine division, J. E. Elliott of Sweet Home entered a junior yearling to take the grand champion poland china four count.

J. F. McGee of Mablevale (Polaski county) had the grand champion poland china sow, and Arthur J. McDaniel, Jr., Route 3, Paragould, had the best pen of three market hogs and the best 2 of six among poland chinas.

Defense Bill Earmarked for Early Approval

Washington, Oct. 3 (AP) — $57,200,000 bill to run the defense department this year was earmarked today for early and final congressional approval.

A Senate-House conference committee, working late last night, agreed on virtually all disputed points in the huge peace-time defense measure. It whittled $1,000,000,000 of a Senate-approved $1,000,000,000 funds for extramural unreserved.

Both Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) and Rep. Mahon (D-Tex.) said Pentagon leaders had failed to produce detailed plans for spending the five billions.

"And the extra (nine) billion should meet all demands until Congress meets again in January," Mahon added.

O'Mahoney, who had pushed the bill through the Senate, said that instead of plans for more air power, the Pentagon went on details on buying real estate for the air force and financing public works for the navy. But O'Mahoney had said last week, after the Senate passed a tax bill far below the amount President Truman requested, that he would agree to trim the extra air force funds in the appropriation bill. Only in that way, he said, could this year's budget be balanced.

Mahon said two-thirds of the navy's air arm.

The bill, carrying military funds for the fiscal year which started July 1, still needs final Senate and House action.

O'Mahoney assured reporters that the bill provided ample funds to provide the "fantastic new secret weapons" President Truman and others have been talking about. The five billions for the air force was originally reported linked to development of the new weapons.

The one remaining difference was a House provision directing that thousands of World War II veterans, recalled to duty against their wishes since the Korean war started, be released after 12 months' service.

These are World War II veterans in the inactive or voluntary reserve who were not on training pay status, as are national guardsmen and naval reservists.

Present law allows their release after 17 months' service unless military officials find they are specially needed.

The Senate knocked out the provision, on the basis of Pentagon leaders that it would disrupt existing plans to rotate Korean combat veterans and would remove key men from many combat units.

House conferees agreed to ask a separate House vote on the issue. They expected the House to accept the Senate version. That would remove the provision, sponsored by Rep. Van Zandt (R-Pa.).

Another House provision, intended to prevent early retirement of officers and men from the armed services, and knocked out by the Senate, was restored in modified form.

and poultry took the spotlight. Bobby Johnson, 16, of Mablevale won the fat barrow championship of the FFA division with a poland china.

The best pen of three hogs went to Wes Childs, 16, FFA member from Magnolia.

Jessup Brands McCarthy's Charge False

Washington, Oct. 3 (AP) — Ambassador Philip C. Jessup swore today that a charge by Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) that he was affiliated with six Communist fronts is false.

Jessup made the statement to a Senate foreign relations subcommittee considering his nomination by President Truman to be a United Nations delegate. His testimony was in reply to charges by McCarthy that Jessup has "followed all the twists and turns of the Communist line."

Last night the subcommittee made public a finding by the civil service loyalty review board that there is "no reasonable doubt" as to Jessup's loyalty.

McCarthy raised some question about the finding but was promptly contradicted by Herman Bingham, chairman of the loyalty board.

Testifying under oath, Jessup denied — as he did last year — McCarthy's accusation that he had "an unusual affinity for Communist causes." The ambassador-it-large, a top advisor to Secretary of State Acheson, also declared:

"I will submit evidence which will demonstrate xxx that I have not been a follower of the Communist party line."

He added:

"I will introduce evidence that the Communists have attacked me with a violence equal to that displayed by the senator from Wisconsin and with far greater justification."

"The evidence that I will introduce will unmask Senator McCarthy's alleged proof as a mixture of barefaced falsehoods, distortions and misrepresentations."

Jessup suggested the committee "or some other appropriate government authority consider whether this disregard for truth, under oath, was or was not deliberate."

Like Jessup, McCarthy had testified under oath.

At the outset of his testimony, Jessup said:

"I will begin with the unqualified declaration that Senator McCarthy's allegation that I was affiliated with six Communist fronts is false — his photostats notwithstanding."

Jessup said he is proud of his membership in "a number of organizations which I think do indicate my attitudes."

Among them the American Legion, the American Bar Association, Carnegie Endowment for International Peace and the Foreign Policy Association.

Declaring that an objective discussion of his activities should cover such organizations as he listed, Jessup added:

"For once I agree with Senator McCarthy when he said to the committee last Thursday, 'I am sure we must take the entire history of this man.'"

But McCarthy, Jessup declared, "prefers to determine my attitudes on the basis of organizations with which I have no active connection rather than those in which I am or have been a vigorous participant."

RELUCTANT DRAGON—Winston Churchill, owner of one of the world's most famous faces, hates to sit for his picture. For two years our London bureau has been trying to induce him to sit for a new formal portrait. The other day he consented to "stand" for this portrait. Conservative Party leaders, wanting to present visual evidence that the 77-year-old leader was fit to assume power if the voters so choose in the Oct. 25 general election, induced him to pose. Churchill stood uneasily for two minutes on the terrace of his home at Westminster. Then he strode back into the house without a word. Judge for yourself whether he looks ready to assume the burdens of another term as prime minister.

School Money Distributed

Little Rock, Oct. 3 (AP) — State Treasurer J. Vance Clayton has announced the distribution of $1,009,858 to counties and cities.

Clayton said the allocation from the county aid fund totaled $97,660 and from the municipal aid fund $975,000. Each county got $988.96 from oil inspection fees, Clayton added.

Counties got $238,246 as their share of the sales tax and the cities for $203,277.

Gasoline turnback distribution totaled $776,492.

Jessup said McCarthy's allegations against him were aimed at "trying to make people believe that I have been and am ready to sell out my own country to the Soviet Union."

Jessup said he would, in the course of his testimony, disprove those allegations.

The ambassador said he was ready to "accept the evaluation of this committee on the senator's plea that his case against me should rest on the cumulative effect of what he called his evidence."

OPS to Continue Violation Drive

Washington, Oct. 2 (AP) — The office of price stabilization (OPS) has promised to continue its drive, a week old today, against violations of government beef price controls.

Already, OPS director Michael V. DiSalle said last night, investigators have found evidence of 1,052 separate violations in 443 of the 1,192 slaughter houses checked.

Enforcement Director Edward Morgan said there is a wide range in the violations charged — including the putting of horse meat in hamburger by some slaughter houses.

DiSalle said his agency will seek maximum penalties against persons accused of violating the regulations. He reiterated also that "there will be no decontrol of beef."

Two Charged With Murder

El Dorado, Oct. 3 (AP) — Two men have been charged here with first degree murder in the slaying of a Strong, Ark., cafe operator.

Avon Wooten, 45, and his son Melvin Wooten were charged with the killing yesterday by Deputy Prosecutor Hugh Wharton.

Wharton said the men are accused of the fatal beating and stabbing of Robert Arnold Baker 33, in Baker's cafe Monday night. He said Baker was slain in a fight with the two men following an argument.

British to Start Election Campaigns

London, Oct. 3 (AP) — Parliament gathers tomorrow for formal dissolution and Britain's intensive election campaign gets underway. The battle trends were clear today.

But the British man-in-the-street was asking today: How deep is the patched-up rift in Labor ranks? Will the seams hold until after voting date, Oct. 25?

Leftist Aneurin Bevan's unexpected show of power at the Labor party's Scarborough conference puzzled the rank and file and some leaders, and it brought glee to Conservative ranks.

Conservative papers this morning charged that the Labor party's moderate-leftist split was wide open against despite claims of the Labor party leaders that all is harmony in the face of the Tory election attacks.

Liberal party quarters indicated they thought Bevan's victory in forcing Defense Minister Emanuel Shinwell from the Labor party executive committee and winning four of the seven contested seats for Vevanites on the committee presaged bitter open warfare in the party after the election.

The Conservative press also hailed Winston Churchill's campaign-opening speech before 8,000 cheering supporters at Liverpool last night.

Churchill promised a "broadly-based" government if his party wins and a five-year political truce to carry on "a tolerant, non-partisan, non-doctrinaire system of policy."

Many here interpreted that as a guarded bid for a coalition cabinet with leaders of all parties joining under Conservative leadership.

The Daily Telegraph called the speech "a call to patriotism and unity in sober contrast to the raucous partisanship of the Socialist campaign," but there were no immediate appraisals of the coalition angle.

The comments were freer on the "We've had it. The floating vote flimsy firm-set of Socialist unity is in the four seats of the political division of the executive committee. 600 votes involved in placing them about 858,000 of the available 1,147, upsurge that gave Bevan's group that Bevan and his friends are a press said editorially "the whole."

The telegraph declared "There is politically insignificant 'ginger' group within the Socialist party." "The British say 'Ginger' where Americans say 'Red' — as a 'ginger-haired persons.'"

The Labor party's own newspaper, the Herald, avoided any editorial comment.

Melvin Wooten were charged with the killing yesterday by Deputy Prosecutor Hugh Wharton.

Wharton said the men are accused of the fatal beating and stabbing of Robert Arnold Baker 33, in Baker's cafe Monday night. He said Baker was slain in a fight with the two men following an argument.

McMath to Lead Young Democrats

Jonesboro, Oct. 3 (AP) — Gov. Sid McMath will lead a seven-man Arkansas delegation to the national convention of Young Democrats which opens in St. Louis Thursday, state YDC President Douglas Bradley announced today.

The governor and his executive secretary, Henry Woods, are flying to St. Louis today from the governor's conference in Gatlinburg, Tenn., Bradley said.

McMath will address the national YDC Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The speech will be carried by the Columbia Broadcasting system.

Other delegates are Bradley and Charlie Johnston, Jonesboro Jimmy Dowell, Little Rock Odell Polard, Searcy and Ed Pace, Camden regional YDC director.

Better Wait - Than Be Sorry!

Standard equipment, accessories and trim illustrated are subject to change without notice.

For the man or woman who wants a Cadillac, there is no satisfactory substitute in the whole wide world!

So, if your heart is set on sitting at the wheel of this great and distinguished motor car—let us talk with you frankly about the matter.

First of all, you should come in and place your order—just as soon as circumstances will permit.

There is now—as there has been for many years—a waiting list of wonderful people who wish to own this wonderful car. And the sooner your name joins this distinguished list—the sooner your hope will be realized.

And once your signature is on an order blank—hold firm to your purpose.

This may not be easy—for temptation is almost certain to assail you!

Cars without number may be had today—almost as soon as you agree to accept them. And, quite naturally, people who sell these available cars may ask you to shift your preference from Cadillac.

But, again, we urge you to hold firm—for the sake of your own welfare and your own satisfaction.

Remember—it's Cadillac you want.

Cadillac—with its universal and pride-inspiring recognition as the Standard of the World!

Cadillac—with such performance that owners actually think up excuses for taking to the highway!

Cadillac—with such amazing endurance that its full life-span has never yet been measured!

Cadillac—with economy so extraordinary that few cars, at any price, will run farther on a gallon of gasoline!

Yes—if you want a Cadillac, come in and order it. And then stand firm until you get it.

It's far, far better to wait—than be sorry. For, remember, there is nothing that can take its place.

Paris Oct. 3 (AP)—U. S. Price Stabilization Administrator Eric Johnston said today that he feels America would hold a steady price level for the next four or five months at least.

"Beyond that," he told newsmen, "my crystal ball is very hazy. There are too many imponderables after that date."

Johnston is making a quick tour of France, Germany and England to study inflationary tendencies.

Metal Men Can't Picket in Pine Bluff

Little Rock, Oct. 3 (AP)—AFL sheet metal workers—at odds with the Arkansas Sheet Metal Contractors association over many terms of a proposed new contract—have been restrained from picketing construction sites here and in Pine Bluff.

A temporary restraining order against Local 249, Sheet Metal Workers International association, was issued by Chancellor Frank H. Dodge yesterday on a motion of the contractors. Judge Dodge set a hearing on a motion for a permanent restraining order for next Wednesday.

J. W. Lucas, business agent for the local, said all pickets were withdrawn.

The lines yesterday disrupted work on two large jobs here and one in Pine Bluff.

Work on the multi-million dollar Highland Park housing project here was virtually halted. The office building annex construction at Arkansas Baptist hospital also was picketed.

Pickets appeared at both places and announced that they were striking against the sub-contractor J. E. Hornbrook Sheet Metal Co. Other union construction workers refused to cross the picket line.

In Pine Bluff, pickets appeared at the construction of a new Arkansas Power and Light Co. building, the gymnasium for Arkansas A. M. & N. college and the Hammond Bag and Paper co. factor building.

About 70 construction workers at the A. P. & N. job were idle throughout the day. However, workers at the other two jobs were on duty when the pickets arrived and continued to work.

The Hornbrook firm sub-contracts for sheet metal work on all of the jobs picketed by the union, which contends that it has been without a contract since Aug. 19. The union also claims that the company refuses to reopen talks since negotiations broke down about two weeks ago.

The union wants the contractors to join in petitioning the wage stabilization board for a wage boost of 37 and a half cents an hour and an increase in subsistence payments allowed for out of town work. The current wage scale is $2 an hour.

Six Dead Following Cuban Firing Drill

Washington, Oct. 3 (AP)—An accident during an anti-aircraft firing drill in Cuba has cost the lives of six navy men and brought injuries to 15 more, the navy announced last night.

The accident occurred in Guantanamo Bay Monday. The navy said the Destroyer Gearing was conducting firing practice when a shell from one five-inch gun hit the barrel of another. Shell fragments caused the deaths and injuries.

The navy said an investigation is under way.

Race Riot Brings Pleas of Guilty

Chicago, Oct. 3 (AP)—Guilty pleas were entered by two of the 100 men who appeared in Cicero police court yesterday in connection with race riots in the suburb last July.

Minimum fines of $10 each were levied against the two men, Charles Hasnied, 21, Cicero, and Ronald Lusk, 19, on their pleas of guilty to unlawful assembly.

Seventy-eight others pleaded innocent and 20 received continuances. Bond of 18 defendants were forfeited when they failed to appear.

The 118 men were seized after state troopers were called to restore order among some 6000 persons. The rioting broke out after a Negro family attempted to move into the all-white community.

The Cook county grand jury recently returned indictments against six persons, none of them rioters, in connection with the disturbances. Those named included Erwin Kovovsky, Cicero police chief.

DOROTHY DIX

Repentant Father

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am writing in hope of helping some other father who may face what I have just been through. I am a man in my fifties. I have just seen my son leave for foreign service with the armed forces and in his eyes I saw hate and disrespect for me. I should have seen love and honor. At one time he was proud to be called my son, but I forfeited that right when I became involved with another woman in what I thought was happiness. He saw me crush his mother and ruin our home. This woman went so much to me that nothing else in the world mattered—or so I thought until today when I saw the look in my boys eyes. I wish to God I had never put it there! I know now when it is too late, that the happiness I thought I had can never make up to me for what I've done to my son. I let him down and killed something fine and good in him. An old man's last fling isn't worth the price of a son.

B. H. F.

Answer: These words from a man who learned his bitter lesson too late preach more eloquently than I ever could of the wages of sin. Punishment is not always saved for the hereafter; it is metered out on earth, too. Losing the devotion and respect of loved ones is a heavy price to pay for the fleeting joys of a passing romance. Yet how few count the cost when they lightly break up one—sometimes two—homes to satisfy an aging passion masking as true love.

Love Needs Honor
Love is a wonderful motivation; after all, as the poet tells us, it makes the world go 'round. In itself, however, it is neither the strongest nor the purest emotion. For completeness, it needs coupling with honor and loyalty. To call upon a poet again, "I could not love thee dear so much, loved I not honor more."

To give up all for love may be a marvelous theme for a book, movie or soap opera; in real life it can be a sordid, selfish affair with tragic consequences.

The saddest letter—an their number is legion—that come to my desk are from men and women, with devoted mates, happy families pleasant homes, who urgently seek approval of breaking up that happy home and riding down the moonlit trail with a sweetheart or lover. Never do they get the approval and seldom, I am sure, do they follow the advice to give up the illicit affair and stay home. The call of romance is too alluring. Within a few months, or perhaps years, the thrill is gone, and nothing remains of the so-called undying love save several broken hearts. Is it worth it? Here is one man, at least, not afraid to say it wasn't.

Dear Miss Dix: I like to cook and am considered a good cook, but on the money my husband gives me I have little chance to show my skill. He will not give me a budget for food; every day I must ask for what I need, then I get a portion of it, plus a lecture on what I did with yesterday's money. No matter how careful I am he's never pleased and he simply doesn't realize that food costs are going up. I even hate to have guests for a meal because it means a scene about the extra money. He makes a wonderful salary, so it isn't lack of money. He just seems to enjoy getting me worked up every day about the food question.

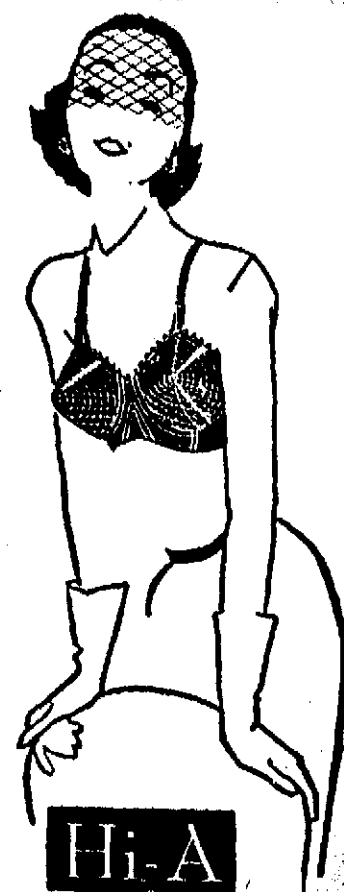

Answer: On hubby's day off, give him a shopping list and tell him to get the food. Nothing brings a man up to date on food costs like a trip to the market. If he refuses to go, declare a strike and refuse to cook until he brings the food into the house. Drastic measures are the only means to bring a penny-pinching husband to heel, and unless you want to face a future of petty money squabbles, you'd better use them.

Dear Miss Dix: I am in love with a fellow who is rarely on time for our dates. Sometimes he doesn't keep them at all, and doesn't even let me know he's not coming. How can I cure him?

Answer: Chronic lateness and indifference to dates is a difficult habit to cure. People with these faults are apt to shrug them off lightly with an airy, "Well, I have no conception of time!" All attempts to excuse this extreme discourtesy are utter nonsense. Any one with respect for other people will keep a date—and on time. Unavoidable delay will be announced, with apologies, by telephone. I doubt if you can cure your friend unless you try the same tactics on him. When he arrives for a date, tell him you've changed your mind about going. If he does not arrive on time, leave the house if it's only to go across the street to a neighbor's, but don't be available when he arrives. He may take the hint. If not, you must either accept the habit or get a new boy friend. Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.

Fair Enough

New York, Oct. 2 — Harry Truman's appeal for a law to reveal the amounts and sources of all income of all public employees, including judges, generals and administrators, receiving more than $10,000 a year from the government, is an admission that he can't trust any one in his party to obey the minimum requirement of honor. It is a fearful reflection on the men and women who constitute the public service, including the administration of justice and of the executive branch, and should be followed, immediately by wholesale resignations. But it is also the sorriest confirmation that we have yet had of Bernard Baruch's irrefutable appraisal of Truman as "a rude, uncouth, ignorant man."

Every justice of the Supreme Court, every cabinet officer, every bureau chief in a position to confer favors and inflict damage has been placed under a cloud. And Truman here has shown that honor is utterly unknown to him as an intelligence on human conduct.

We can understand that, in view of his political origins and his intimate and affectionate association for many years with one of the foulest crooks in our political history. Thus, we have caught a name of our Supreme Court men accepting a bribe or a kick out for his wife although several of them were sworn fellows before they landed there. But many bureaucrats have been terrible racketeers and by no means all of them have been exposed.

Wendell Wilkie was the first one of our little Latin-American who was only to needle F. D. Roosevelt and those members of his family who had hopped onto the gravy train after the first inauguration, including Roosevelt's wife and kids, with the possible exception of John, and a whole slew of parasite in-laws and cousins. Wilkie just said it was his personal intention to file an inventory of his wealth and the assets of his wife and children when his term expired. He had heard that in though it was publicly known that countries there was a law requiring this data from presidents and their immediate family and he was ribbing Roosevelt on the wealth which he and his family already were known to have grabbed off by exploiting the election returns and the prestige of the highest secular office on earth at that time.

This comes belatedly from Truman. It comes years after he has laid a position of trust and dubious honor to Eleanor the Great even though it was publicly known that she had "accepted" a bribe worth $7,000 in the name of American citizenship from an industry having an axe to grind. It comes after the notorious scandal whereby Roosevelt squandered the alimony debts of his son, Elliott, by trimming John Hartford and others on worthless notes.

In one of those disgraceful exploits, Hall Roosevelt, Eleanor's brother, was the confidence man who gave the rush to Charlie Harwood, a New York club-house politician, clipping him for $25,000. Harwood, under a job as judge of some federal court and claimed to have the professional qualifications in the sense of education although morally of course he was no better than a hundred other lame-duck congressmen and other such bums who were inducted into the judiciary. Yet, for all his legal knowledge he had the gall when the expose was made to insist that his $25,000, handed to Hall Roosevelt, was not a bribe and that he actually never had known whether it was a loan to Elliott, a loan to Elliott's radio company or an investment in stock. It can be said of old Charlie, though, that when he found out that he had been taken for a sucker by the son and brother of Eleanor the Great he hung onto the stool until it came back and earned him a profit.

Offered "Two cents on the dollar," Harwood said, "well, if that's all it is worth, it's no good to you, either so I will just keep it." Disgraceful as the larceny has been in the Truman household and sometimes it has resembled the cheap graft that used to beset the ill-paid, ink-stained wretches of the sport page, it has been comparable to the graft of the Roosevelt ring only in its gross immorality. Legality isn't a measure of such conduct. Propriety and honor must be relied on and these fine old qualities began to vanish soon after Roosevelt moved in. Truman had no moral qualifications to clean up when he came along. He is in the moral sense an ignoramus or he could not have excused the multiple cases within his household on the ground that they were not criminal.

Holderfield Gets Suspension

Little Rock, Oct. 3 — Another 60-day suspension has been slapped on Buddy Holderfield, North Little Rock middleweight, for his unsportsmanlike showing in a boxing match at St. Louis, Sept. 26.

Lloyd Lewis, secretary of the Arkansas Athletic commission, today announced that Holderfield had been suspended for 60 days in Arkansas, retroactive to Sept. 26. Earlier, the Missouri commission had banned the Arkansan from fighting in that state for 90 days because of inadequate physical condition.

Holderfield was knocked out by Jesse Turner in the sixth round of a scheduled 10-round fight.

Lewis said Holderfield would have to undergo a physical examination before he could be reinstated to continue his business of prize-fighting.

Holderfield's suspension is the latest in a series of setbacks for the Arkansan, who has been suspended from fighting in several states.

Chicago, Oct. 3 (AP) — Having sorrowfully underestimated Notre Dame and Michigan State, here's another midwest stab by a scatter-shot swimmer.

Illinois 20, Wisconsin 14 — That is, if it doesn't rain. And if it does rain, Illinois doesn't try to pass like last year when a stolen aerial gave the Badgers a much-needed 7-0 victory. Ray Eliot won't take the Wisconsin as lightly this time and the Illini have the horses to go. This one could be for the Big Ten title.

Michigan State 13, Ohio State 7 — Gotta play the buck on this one. The Buckeyes could have been beaten by Southern Methodist only the Mustangs forgot to put handles on the ball. Any team that beats any Michigan team, 25-0, is cocky. Ray Eliot won't take the Wisconsin as lightly this time and the Illini have the horses to go. This one could be for the Big Ten title.

Purdue 14, Iowa 11 — This could go either way. Hawkeye speed is the best in years and Iowa whipped Kansas State only 16-0 because it blew seven chances with the 13-yard line. But Purdue's Duke Samuels can break up anybody's football game.

California 18, Minnesota 7 — The West Coast climate and Pappy Waldorf's second-ranked Bears are too hot for West. Foster's frisky Gophers.

Michigan 14, Stanford 7 — If San Jose State can score two touchdowns against Stanford's four, the Wolverines should be able to bounce back from that Michigan State laceration.

Northwestern 21, Army 7 — There's still some life in the cringing-chastised Cadets, but not enough to upset Northwestern's snappy young Wildcats.

Indiana 19, Pittsburgh 13 — The Hoosiers weren't as bad as that 48-6 drubbing by Notre Dame might indicate. The problem is, can (Yard) Smith get their chins off their chests. Notre Dame 42, U. of Detroit 0 (Friday night) — A fine spot for the Irish to test their "Us" for Southern Methodist the following Saturday.

Marquette 28, Iowa State 21 — Ought to be a free-wheeling contest. The Hilltoppers are chomping after giving Wisconsin a stiff debate. Iowa State scored five touchdowns in losing to Kansas 33-33.

Around the Arkansas Sports Loop

By CARL BELL

Little Rock, Oct. 3 (AP) — There appears to be an unusually large number of outstanding backs in Arkansas high school football this fall.

The season is in its infancy, but already the list includes these top-notch ball carriers, passers, and kickers for all-state nomination:

Henry Moore of Little Rock, Roy Edgington of Pine Bluff, Charles Nations and Don Monk of North Little Rock, Mel Hay, Blytheville Ely Mooty of El Dorado, Jack McMahon and Joe Thompson of Hot Springs, Charles Cole, Magnolia Buddy Benson, DeQueen Bobby Pearson, Fayetteville, Freddie Duval and Jimmy Batson of Russellville.

And we've probably overlooked as many more who are just as good.

Blytheville High school has a 10-game winning streak stretching back to Thanksgiving, 1949. If there's a longer existing string in Arkansas, it has escaped notice.

The Chicks of Blytheville also have another claim to fame besides their state Class A grid championship of last year. They're the last Arkansas team to whip the Little Rock Tigers. That was in 1948.

The longest victory streak in Arkansas collegiate football at present belongs to Southern State of Magnolia. The Muleriders have 10 in a row and the end isn't in sight for Coach Elmer Smith's powerhouse.

Southern's streak began last year when it obtained Optimaggle, the Sicilian mule mascot who has never seen the Muleriders lose.

Arkansas State's 46-6 shellacking of Arkansas Tech last Saturday night evened an old, old score. The last time the two had met on the football field was in 1920, when John Tucker, now Tech's athletic director, led the Wonder Boys to a 69-0 victory.

Another long-standing count with Tech probably will be squared this Saturday by Southern State. Southern hasn't beaten the Wonder Boys since 1932, but will be heavily favored this time.

Can you imagine a team with Gil Bartosh and a still better tailback, too. That, we're told, is just how Texas Christian, the Arkansas Razorbacks' Saturday night foe is manned.

Before the season opened, the saying was as Bartosh, the great triple-threat, goes, so goes TCU. But Arkansas scouts say Malvin Fowler outshone Bartosh in the Frogs' first two games and apparently is beating him out of the starting assignment.

Joe Dillard, Arkansas State Teachers basketball great, is back in school after an army discharge. He has two seasons of eligibility left. Hot Springs, High's new $250,000 field house is expected to be ready for occupancy Nov. 1.

Frank Fischel, the big, ragged defensive end for the U. of A., wasn't scrimmaged at all in practice last year for fear that he might aggravate a shoulder injury. He had to do a little rough stuff early this season just to brush up, but Coach Otis Douglas says that from on it's back to the light work for Frank until Saturdays, that is.

Conferees Meet on New Tax Measure

Washington, Oct. 2 (AP) — House conferees headed today for the first time in the past 20 years to meet on the tax bill, 204 amendments and 100,000,000 apart in estimated cost.

The five senators and seven representatives on the conferees met in the House today to discuss the bill, which is expected to pass in less than ten days.

The bill, if passed, would increase the tax on income in excess of $100,000 from 35 to 40 percent, and on income in excess of $200,000 from 40 to 45 percent.

The bill also would increase the tax on income in excess of $100,000 from 35 to 40 percent, and on income in excess of $200,000 from 40 to 45 percent.

The bill is estimated to cost $100,000,000 more than the revenue it would produce.

Five Killed in Ordnance Blast

Newtown, Conn., Oct. 2 (AP) — Five survivors of a mysterious explosion probably blew their lives to anonymous heroes.

Five other civilian workers were killed in the explosion yesterday at the naval ordnance depot.

Cdr. Arthur Quinn, acting commander, said they were the first fatalities at the depot since it was opened 21 years ago.

Quinn reported "several outstanding acts of bravery" but admitted "we haven't had time to learn the names of those who helped."

The navy withheld names of all 10 casualties. It started an investigation.

The blast occurred on the 10 were loading another projectile with liquid explosives.

Navy fire crews, ignoring the danger, rescued the survivors and extinguished the fire before it could set off other explosives.

NO SURVIVORS

What was the whiskey runner figuring that needed 30 Indians of a tribe that, not even excepting the Sioux, was as tough as any that roamed the prairies?

I burst out: "Yellow Bird, the knife." He almost had our guest decapitated before the words were well out of my mouth. I was barely in time to knock his arm up.

"Now talk fast," I snarled, raising the runner clear of the ground. My fist knotted in his greasy buckskin shirt. "Who else was with him?"

"Another Injun, that's all. A little skinny fellow."

The chill of the words ran into me like the bite of a saber-blade. "What was he called?"

"They went east. Then they come back a day later with this here bunch of Crow. This time they hit out north, the whole bunch of 'em. That was 'bout five, six days ago. State said he'd be back in a week and when we asked him what if this here guy comes after the whiskey while he's gone, he says, 'Just don't worry none, 'bout that, I'll be back in plenty of time for him.' Peers like this little Sioux done told him the fellow wasn't a minn' to come down until the grass was up short."

WELL, there was one piece of good luck, anyway. The Mouse had left before I changed my plan. "Anything else?"

"Well, no, 'ceptin' I never seen State so kicked-up 'bout anything. He ain't persactly what you'd call a happy-jack, ordinarily, but when him and his Injun pals get out to leave, he's grinnin' like a crocodile. He yells back to us, 'Take care of the liquor, boys. I'm bringin' me back a squaw and we'll need every drop for the weddin' party.'"

Nodding, my lieutenant said quietly, "Let us put snow on the fire, Cetan Mani."

Facing the prisoner again, I put the pivot question. "And just what is State's name?"

"This here Mouse he come down the river last week and told State a white man is with the Sioux drummin' them up about whiskey runnin' in 'em, and him, that's State, in particular. He told State this here fellow was a minn' to come down here with his gang and smash up the whiskey boats. State gits out the jug and laces this redskin up with whiskey, proper. After he's got him his snootful, the Injun upins his chin and really lets it wobble."

"Bout halfway through his spiel Bird eased forward, slipping a foot-long skinning knife out of its sheath as he came. 'Where's State-meyer?'"

The man talked. "State-meyer's gone north. The words tumbled all over each other now. 'Left four days ago.'"

"Who was with him?"

"Passell of Crow Injuns. 'Bout 30."

At this, my bravest came alert, their fat eyes glancing in the firelight. "Crow?" queried Yellow Bird contemptuously. The Crow were the most precious of the Sioux blood enemies.

Would Make Party Leaders Resign

Washington, Oct. 2 (AP) — Senator Williams (R-De) renewed today his call for the resignations of both Republican and Democratic national chairmen.

The relations of both with the reconstruction finance corporation (RFC), big government lending agency, are under senate investigation.

Williams told a reporter he was not impressed by a vote of confidence Guy C. Gabrielson, the GOP chief, got yesterday from 41 members of the Republican national committee members who were here.

"Both Gabrielson and William M. Boyle, Jr., the Democratic national chairman, have acknowledged that they interceded with the RFC concerning loans to clients who paid them fees," Williams said.

"Both men contend they used no political influence. But no matter how hard they try, they can't get away from the fact they do have influence—political influence—and that a telephone call or visit from them in behalf of a client is bound to carry more weight with a government agency than if some one else did it."

Williams said he sees no difference between a majority and minority party in that respect, since no government official can be sure whether the next election won't reverse positions.

The senate investigations subcommittee is preparing to recess or wind up its public hearings tomorrow in the case of Boyle, and to hear Gabrielson the following day in a parallel investigation.

Senator McClellan (D-Ark), a member of the investigations group said of the vote of confidence for Gabrielson: "It's all right with me if they've got confidence in him. I have no comment on it."

The committee has called Miss Janet Boone, 26, a former bookkeeper for American Lithofold Corp., to tell whether she had orders to treat the firm's payments to Boyle differently than payments to other creditors.

She is the last scheduled witness unless Theodore Lin, a reporter for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, includes a mysterious "Mr. X" and "Mr. Y" to go before the group as witnesses. He has said they are sources who gave him information for his series of articles saying Boyle accepted $8,000 from Lithofold.

Boyle and Lithofold officials have testified Boyle was paid $1,250—as retainer fees not related to the $65,000 loans Lithofold got in 1949 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation (RFC) and has since repaid. Boyle acknowledged arranging a meeting between RFC officials and Lithofold negotiators.

The federal agents said Kits bought 14 Cadillacs and Chryslers for his own use in one 18-month period. He is a rabid football fan they said, and sometimes chartered planes to fly to far off games. They said he looks and dresses like a prosperous young businessman, but that when 20 FBI men closed in on him at a tavern he was in a bartender's apron.

Within five days after Kits was arrested, the FBI said, the FBI picked up the final three of his alleged associates. They were named as Tony Joe Biane, arrested at Omaha, Frank James Ellsworth near Tuscaloosa, Ala., and Charles Calvin Robinson at Torrington, Wyo., all under indictment for bank burglaries.

According to the FBI, Kits and Ellsworth combined a trip to the Rose Bowl game of 1948 with a shiplifting and burglary tour in California.

Iran Opens Uncertain Future Door

Washington, Oct. 3 (AP) — The door which Iran unlatched today — to boot out the last of the British oil technicians — opened on an uncertain future for Iran and the rest of the world.

Iran now faces many problems, mainly these: Revenue, oil technicians, ships, customs and friends and there will be the struggle between Russia and the West for a tie-up with Iran.

The story itself began last spring when the Iranian government took over the oil industry which the British had been developing almost half a century and which the British government controlled.

The British paid Iran a royalty on the oil taken out of its fields, refined by British technicians, and hauled away in 200 British ships. One third of Iran's revenue came from this royalty.

Unless Iran can restore all, or most of this revenue, it will suffer badly and has been suffering since oil production in Iran stopped. But to produce it needs technicians. It doesn't have enough of its own to do the job.

Unless it finally makes some deal with the British — and no one seems to be betting on this now — to let the British technicians return, it will have to find them elsewhere.

The worse off Iran becomes economically, the better the chance for the local Communists to increase the number of their members and sympathizers. They feed best on internal distress.

The more the West lets Iran turn to Russia for help, the closer the ties with, and obligations to, the Communists. It's no bed of roses for the West which now must outwit the Russians in dealing with Iran.
